Rick Abraham, a former real estate developer turned sales consultant, studies the habits of the world's most successful sales people and is a Chicago-area Regus client.

“Coming from the real estate world, I understand the true costs of owning and operating your own office; one of the biggest costs is time,” said Abraham. “If I’m spending time to find my own office space, negotiate a lease, and buy furnishings and equipment, I’m not focusing on my core business. So I let the Regus Group handle all of that.”

Abraham continued, “I have pretty high standards, and Regus is able to meet them consistently. The business centers are in class-A buildings, the offices are elegant, and the people are always professional.”

All Regus clients have high-speed Internet access and digital telephone service managed by a highly trained IT support team. Regus also offers clients a wide range of on-site business services, including administrative support. Clients also have the option to use the center's meeting rooms, videoconferencing studios and business lounge.

The Two Prudential Plaza business center will be one of the first Regus centers to offer virtual face-to-face meetings via the Cisco® TelePresence system, an innovative new technology that combines rich audio, high-definition video, and interactive elements to deliver a unique, “in-person” experience—over the network.
